

Lap Band Procedure

Lap Band procedure

The purpose of lap band surgery is to adjust the size of one's stomach through a number of tiny incisions using a laparoscope. This then means that patients get an earlier sensation of fullness while eating, therefore creating weight loss.

The goal of weight loss once one has had Lap Band surgery is generally one to three pounds a week, but results will vary from patient to patient.